Lehtinen participated as the U.S.-Canada panelist during the presentation.*

Las Vegas, NV (PRWEB) April 24, 2009 -- The American Bar Association wrapped up its 2009 Business Law Section Spring Meeting in Vancouver, B.C., Canada on April 18, 2009. Attorney Kristan Lehtinen, a partner in the Las Vegas law firm of Lovaas & Lehtinen, P.C. focused her discussion on U.S.-Canada Cross Border Negotiations. Lehtinen was joined by distinguished panelists: Sajai Singh, Esq., a Partner of J. Sagar Associates based in Bangalore, India, (Asian-U.S.); Stephen Wilson, Esq., Partner in Osborne Clarke located in Palo Alto, CA (European-U.S.); and Miguel A. Zaldivar, Jr., Esq., a Partner at Hogan & Hartson, LLP based in Miami, Florida (Latin America-U.S.). The panel discussion featured prominent speakers on the topics of modification of negotiation techniques in different continents, the effect of globalization, and differences in the approach of negotiations conditioned by the culture of specific regions around the globe. The large audience present for the two-hour presentation received invaluable tips, techniques and strategies in the panelists' areas of international expertise.

Following the program, Lehtinen observed, "Participating in the programming available at an event on the scale of the ABA Business Law Section Spring Meeting provided an important opportunity for me to share information with my international colleagues and incorporate additional global negotiation techniques in my own practice specific for various regions around the world. Such information is an invaluable tool to provide an additional layer of exceptional service for our local Las Vegas and international clients."
